Immigration Laws At Canadian Line Ignored, Siegel Says

Finds Enforcement Impossible Until Inadequate and Underpaid Force of Employees Is Bolstered Up

Representative Isaac Siegel, of New York, member of the House Committee on Immigration, declared in a statement yesterday that immigration laws go unenforced along part of the Canadian border and they cannot be carried out rigidly until the inadequate, underpaid force of inspectors and other employees is bolstered up.

Returning from an inspection trip along section of the landary and at Montreal, where he collected data for presentation to the committee, Representative Siegel said he found there were seventy-six entry places between Canada and the United States and only twenty-three officers to examine immigrants.

"Employees of the Immigration Department are discouraged because of low salaries, long working hours and other unpleasant conditions and many are resigning," he added.

Stressing the importance of the gates to the north, he pointed out that 12,000,000 persons pass to and from Canada and the United States annually.

"Despite the law requiring each immigrant to undergo examination, there was only one doctor at Montreal in respect 700 Italians who recently arrived there, anxious to enter America," Mr. Siegel said. "He began examining them November 27, and is still at it."

"Canadian police do not interfere with Chinese who desire to leave Canada for the United States. Orders were issued to the Canadian police not to interfere, as each Chinese in Canada has had to pay $500 and a head tax to stay there. There are now 40,000 Chinese in Canada. I was informed by the Chinese Consul General at Ottawa."

"Last Sunday three Chinese being smuggled into the United States from Canada were captured and held in $5,000 bail each for action by a grand jury."

Dr. Albert Refused To Take Minority Interest in Sun

Samuel Untermyer's Note, Written in February, 1916, for Client, Introduced at Rumely Trial

The name of Samuel Untermyer, who is conducting the housing investigation for the Lockwood committee, yesterday was brought into the trial of Dr. Edward A. Rumely, former proprietor and editor of The New York Evening Mail, who is now a defendant in the United States District Court along with Norvin Lindheim and S. Walter Kaufman on the charge of withholding from the Alien Property Custodian the alleged German ownership of The Evening Mail during the World War.

According to Dr. Albert's deposition Mr. Untermyer wrote to him on February 22, 1916, to ask him if he would take a minority interest in The Sun. Mr. Untermyer's letter was accepted in evidence. It follows in part:

"I have received word that an opportunity has now arrived to acquire that morning and evening newspaper about which we have been talking, and that it can be had at a price slightly under $2,000,000, for four-sixths of the capital stock, which includes valuable real estate on Park Row, but that action must be taken immediately. The letter goes on to outline sundry details of the proposed transaction, and continues:

"I shall be glad to hear from you as to whether you are now in a position to take up this subject seriously and properly with me and bring it to a conclusion if, as I believe, the terms are advantageous."

On February 23 Dr. Albert replied: "With reference to your letter received yesterday afternoon, have sent at once a cipher cable to Berlin asking for authorization to take up the subject. I expect to have an answer by March 1, so we can discuss the question as soon as you return to New York."

Mr. Untermyer was going to South America as a member of the International High Commission.

Mr. Untermyer refused yesterday to discuss Dr. Albert's testimony in any other way than to refer to the proceedings before the Overman Committee, at those proceedings the late Colonel Van Hamm, then managing editor of The New York American, testified that Mr. Untermyer acted for him in the transaction, which came to nothing because the German interests were not attracted by the proposition of acquiring a mere third interest in the proposed purchase.

Further reading from Dr. Albert's deposition brought out that Dr. Rumely had been in the city for some time, and that Dr. Albert had advanced to Dr. Rumely $10,000 to finance the shipment of tractors to Germany, none of which Dr. Albert testified, ever reached there.

The trial will be continued today.
